Your Lifeline To Safety

9-1-1 is for Emergencies

An Emergency Is When Immediate Police, Fire Or Medical Assistance Is Necessary To Protect Life Or Property

WHEN YOU CALL 9-1-1

- Know the address or location of the emergency you are reporting
- Know the telephone number you are calling from
- Follow the 9-1-1 call-taker's instructions and answer the 9-1-1 call-taker's questions as accurately as you can
- Never hang up until told to do so

FROM A CELL PHONE

The convenience of using your cell phone from anywhere - at home, at work or at play - can create a challenge for emergency responders.

Most cell phones in use today have the capability of being located when dialing 9-1-1.

To be sure your cell phone has 9-1-1 location capabilities, check with your service provider or cell phone manufacturer.

FROM AN INTERNET PHONE

Since internet phones can be moved from location to location, users need to register their phone's location whenever it is moved. Check with your service provider on how to register your phone's location and to determine the level of 9-1-1 service they offer.

Non-Emergencies

A Non-Emergency Situation Or Event Does Not Require An Immediate Response By Police, Fire Or Ambulance

REPORTING NON-EMERGENCIES OR FOR GENERAL INFORMATION

Call the appropriate agency's non-emergency telephone number listed on the back of this brochure.

IF YOU CALL 9-1-1 BY MISTAKE

Do not hang up!
Let the 9-1-1 call-taker know you called by mistake.

CAN YOU BE FOUND IN AN EMERGENCY?

Make sure your address is clearly posted on your home so it can be seen and read from the roadway.
